

Chamber Spotlight on Genest Concrete

You've likely driven by Genest many times at 546 Elm St. (Route 1) in Biddeford, but if you've never stopped in for a visit, we highly recommend it. Their many product lines and capabilities, along with the range of services they provide, are quite impressive.

Genest Concrete is a family-owned business that began manufacturing concrete products in 1927. Today they are recognized as one of New England's leading manufacturers and distributors of concrete block, architectural masonry, paving stones, and landscape wall stones.

Their Biddeford location is one of their Retail Centers, where you can see all their hardscape and masonry products in their showroom and on their extensive grounds and patio displays outside. Lately more of us have spent more time at home so if you are planning to upgrade your outdoor living area, you should schedule an appointment with them or just drop by. This is an ideal time of year to begin a new project so you can enjoy it throughout the Summer and Fall. Knowledgeable staff are always available to help you, whether you are a contractor, landscaper, mason or (like most of us) a weekend warrior.

According to Rob Chermak, Genest Sales Director, two items that are particularly hot this year include their easy-to-install fire-pit options, along with stone patios, that combined can make your backyard a refuge to relax in and enjoy time at home with family and loved ones, which is especially relevant and important this year.

We encourage you to learn more about Genest on their website at www.genest-concrete.com or just head over for a visit to see everything they have to offer for yourself!
