

Now Recruiting: Associate Director UC-wide Center for Gender & Health Justice (CGHJ)

The UC-wide Center for Gender & Health Justice is seeking an experienced scholar, practitioner, or researcher to serve as Associate Director. This leadership role will help shape the Center's strategic direction, research agenda, and cross-campus collaborations across the UC system.

Position Details

Appointment: 10% time

Compensation: $15,000 annual salary

Learn More

Faculty and colleagues interested in learning more about the role, expectations, and application process are encouraged to contact:

Dr. Sean Arayasirikul

Sean.Arayasirikul@uci.edu

About CGHJ

CGHJ advances gender equity and health justice through transdisciplinary, action-oriented, and human rights-based research and education. Our work aims to reduce gender and health inequities locally and globally while strengthening the next generation of leaders in the field.

Who Should Apply

We welcome inquiries from faculty and professionals with a strong record of interdisciplinary work and a demonstrated commitment to advancing gender and health justice across research, policy, and practice.