

Hello, I'm Matt and I have recently joined the Lablogic team at Unit K working within the supply chain.

I have had a varied career working within this area from Marks & Spencer to heavy engineering, so I hope I have most areas covered.

Born and bred in Kimberworth, Rotherham, I am a father of 3 twenty-year-olds, one of which doesn't seem ready to fly the nest as the others have but seeing as how the heating will not be turned on this winter that may change soon. In my spare time when I'm not performing my dad taxi duties, I like listening to music, going to gigs, and the cinema. I love foreign and domestic travel, a favourite being Boston MA where my great grandparents on my grandfather's side met. Until recently I was very keen on walking my dog twice a day but unfortunately she passed away earlier in the year and since then I have been constantly bombarded with photos of rescue dogs from my daughter, so hopefully in the near future I will have another "fur baby" as the kids call them .

I am very much looking forward to meeting the rest of the LabLogic family and sharing in the bright future ahead.
