

 The Foundation for Jewish Studies and

 Ohr Kodesh Congregation

are pleased to co-sponsor

How Do You Say "Genocide" in Yiddish?

Monday, November 14th from 7:30 to 9:00 pm

with Dr. James Loeffler

Ohr Kodesh Congregation

8300 Meadowbrook Lane, Chevy Chase, MD

The Polish Jewish lawyer Raphael Lemkin coined the term "genocide" during World War II. Dr. Loeffler will discuss the concept of a "genocide law" that predates the Holocaust and is derived from Lemkin's forgotten role as a leader in the interwar Polish Zionist movement. Dr. Loeffler will also explore what Zionism can tell us about the politics of the Holocaust and human rights, past and present.

There is no cost for this program, but please register by visiting www.foundjs.org or by calling

The Foundation for Jewish Studies at 301-770-4787.

This program is made possible by the generosity of Bernice z"l and Garry Lebbin in honor of their family