Hello, Parents of Rainbow Door,

This week the children learned all about the tradition of Valentine's Day as well as friendship. We recited the poem, "Roses are Red Violets are Blue" and learned to spell "Heart" by using a B-I-N-G-O themed song. The letter of the week was the letter V as in Valentines and the children were able to practice tracing the letter V as well as guessing words that begin with the letter V. The children were also able to take turns drawing hearts on the whiteboard. The children also enjoyed a book reading by the one and only author of, "Shelly Goes to the Zoo", Kentrell Martin.

For Art, the children had an eventful week full of fun-filled Valentines themed projects. We started the week making Valentines Day wreaths by using pink, red, and purple construction paper, a paper plate, and some glue. They also used a cotton ball with white, pink, and red paint to decorate a very special Valentine's Day card for our loved ones. The children also made their very own Valentine themed headbands using construction paper and cut out hearts to glue and decorate them. But that is not all the children have one more special gift for their loved ones where they not only show their love but also their tracing skills!

For storytime we read, The Best Valentines Ever, The Day It Rained Hearts, Where's My Hug, Big Shark Valentine's Surprise, and Valentines Express.

Parents, please remember to continue practicing with your child at home and to help them hold their pencils properly which is an important motor function. Also, please wash all your child's blankets and return them to school Monday morning. Please label anything that is theirs with their name and remember to cut your child's nails so they don't scratch themselves or others.

Have a wonderful weekend!
