Dear Parents,

This week we introduced the concept of "Living and Non-living Things."

We watched videos, used flash cards and read books to implement this. It was very exciting and fun!! Using flash cards was a great way for the children to catch on. For example; we showed the children a flash card of a bucket of water and asked "is this living or non living?" then we had them explain to us why. Then we showed them a flash card of a cow and asked "is this living or non living?" The educational videos we showed about non living and living things was a great way to implement this new subject as well. We had a blast doing an art project about our topic of the week. We used a paper and divided the paper with living things and drew a picture of living things, then on the other half of the paper the children drew a picture of non living things. The children also practiced their vowels and our numbers! We used different objects of living and non living and had the children sort them.

For our extracurricular activities the children had a blast running and hopping with their classmates and learning the rules to a new game Ms. Jackie showed us! We played the children's favorite Sharks and Minnows, Cat and Mouse and the children used bean bags to catch and tag their classmates. While In the garden we were looking carefully to see if we could find living or non living things.

The books we read:

Is It a Living Thing, Living and Non Living
Living Things Change and Grow.

Quote of the week:

"In every living thing, there is the desire for love." D.H. Lawrence

Have a wonderful weekend,
