Dear Parents of Gold,

This week the kids got more in touch with current events! On Monday and Tuesday the kids worked on a project with recycled items, they were taught to reduce reuse and recycle all in this project, they had a blast making their rocket bottles and their love bottles. For their STEM activity they were able to make pinwheels, seesaws, and race cars to understand how they revolve and how their machinery and engines work.

Colombia's Independence Day was on Wednesday and to get in the festive spirit we had a movie day and were able to watch and learn Colombian culture through the movie Encanto, the kids then made their own Colombian capybara and their own casita. As we went through the week the kids made paper plate animals and had lots of fun coming up with animals that could fit a plate. Their creativity has been out of this world!

Books we read: "The legend of the Bluebonnet", "A Chair for my Mother", "Christopher Columbus", and Marc Learns to Fly".

Hope you all have an amazing weekend, hope to see you all next week!

Sincerely,
Ms. Audrey and Ms. Ali
