Youth who neither study nor work.

Migrant youth who have been returned to their place of origin need to reincorporate themselves into their communities socially, psychologically, and economically by returning to school and obtaining a job or starting their own small business.

How do we rebuild our self-image and confidence after a major failure so that we can have hope for our future?

Project Objectives

1. Promote the social and productive return of youth through educational and financial support with an initial grant to fund support for scholarships and entrepreneurship opportunities and local employment.

Project Objectives

2. Improve the levels of self-help and self-confidence in returned youth through psychosocial support provided by specialists in attending migrant populations.

Project Components

1. Formation and training of youth entrepreneurs;
2. Funding for training and equipment;
3. Self-Help component for migrant youth.

Outcome

- 1. Establishment of a sustainable program of personal and professional development and technical training for youth in entrepreneurship and employment in accordance with their personal interests , conditions and resources available, in partnership with national and international stakeholders who work in the field of community economic development, migration, and youth.

We can reduce the need for out-migration through sustainable development investment in Honduras
