

Pacific Sunset

Tonight I sit at the cusp of another Pacific sunset on the edge of our ocean.

“How many does it make now?”
A place which calms me as I ask of our horizon rounded at its edges, but it stares back at me, devoid of answers because nature is beautiful that way.
It provides the needed sanctuary and waits for answers to unfold.