

WHO WE ARE

The American Public Human Services Association (APHSA) supports leaders from state, county, and city human services agencies to advance the well-being of individuals, families, and communities nationwide. As a bipartisan membership association, we work with our members to generate pragmatic solutions grounded in lived experience with a lens for equity and belonging.

APHSA members administer, oversee, and align programs that build resilience and bolster family well-being through access to food, health care, housing, employment, child care, and many other key building blocks necessary for thriving communities. Our members also work to modernize and align human services Information Technology (IT) systems, performance measurement and data analysis, workforce development and training, and the legal dimensions of the sector.

We work within and across systems and sectors, fostering partnerships and elevating innovations to effect change. APHSA connects with federal agencies, Congress, and the Administration to help federal policymakers understand what works at the state, county, and city levels and how to modernize national policies, through guidance, regulations, and legislation. We bring foundations, researchers, people with lived experience, community-based organizations, and other thought leaders into conversations with our connected network.
