

Gail Briceland, Local Systems Manager for the Infant and Toddler Connection of Central Virginia, is retiring this month after 17 years of working with children in Central Virginia. She took on the role of Director at the Child Development Clinic in 2004. While she was the director of the CDC, she brought over the Infant and Toddler Connection in 2009. She remained the director of both the Child Development Center and Infant and Toddler Connection until the summer of 2013 when the CDC closed their doors.

She started the Infant & Toddler Connection of Central Virginia with 70 clients and 3 staff members. The program has grown to over 420 clients and 10 staff members. Through her leadership, thousands of children in Central Virginia have received the help their families needed to achieve developmental milestones.

Gail has been married to her husband Terry for 45 years. Together they have 4 children and 12 grandchildren and a poodle mix named Rusty! She enjoys hosting sleepovers and playdates for the grandchildren.

Gail has been an important part of Infant and Toddler Connection and her expertise will be missed. We wish her all the best in her retirement!
