OUR HISTORY

The fire service comes from a long line of history and tradition. Colchester's emergency services, namely the Fire Department, is an organization that has been born through progression and evolution. As the community's needs change, the town continues to grow and the expectations of our emergency services continues to increase, we strive to ensure our organization is providing the best service. In 1854, the Hayward Volunteer Fire Company was formed with Nathaniel Hayward being instrumental with the first fire company in the Borough of Colchester. Through the years, the volunteer fire company reorganized and changed names several times for various reasons. Through that time and those changes many proactive and revolutionary advancements were made in Colchester with regards to fire suppression, fire prevention and volunteer recruitment/retention.

OUR VISION

We strive to be recognized as a progressive, innovative and cohesive public safety leader committed to providing exemplary service to the community
