

Colchester Giving Garden

The Giving Garden has completed its 2025 growing and donating season. We had another great year of supplying our town food bank with fresh vegetables for those right here in our community. We still have a few items left to donate but our weekly work nights are complete and we donated 1,703 lbs. of fresh produce to the Colchester Food Bank and to a few area soup kitchens.

This undertaking is only accomplished because of the many wonderful volunteers who come and work weekly at the garden. Our continued success is due to them and to the many town folks who donate their vegetable seedlings and or extra surplus from their home gardens to make the Giving Garden a success.

Please consider joining the garden team next spring when we start up again in April. We now stand at 17,668 pounds of fresh produce donated since we began in 2013. A HUGE thank you to all who have helped us reach this goal. Hope to see you in the spring!!
