NICOLE KRAUSS is one of the most important novelists writing today. Her 2005 book, History of Love, is an enthralling tale of loneliness and the power of literature to create bonds across time and space. Her 2011 book, Great House, which won a National Book Award, explores memory, loss and storytelling. Her 2017 novel, Forest Dark, takes place in Tel Aviv, with two protagonists on spiritual quests to free themselves from their respective obsessions. Krauss' work resonates widely with a universal audience and has been translated into more than 30 languages.
