

RESEARCH

Human Research Protections Program's On-Demand Learning:
De-mystifying the IRB – Student Edition

Learning Goals

Learn practical strategies to simplify and expedite the IRB application process.

Gain confidence in where to go for navigating required training, the eIRB+ system, and HRPP support resources

Understand the core components and requirements of the Rutgers HRPP and protecting participants in research.

Complete our on-demand course designed to guide student or "in-training" researchers through the Human Research Protection Program (HRPP) and the IRB submission process. This session will demystify the HRPP, general IRB requirements, provide practical tips for successful applications, and simplify the pathway from research proposal to approval. Whether you're starting to explore research ethics or looking to streamline your approach, this session will equip you with the tools and knowledge you need to succeed.

Register here
or scan below:

For more information email:
IRBDRAFTServices@research.rutgers.edu

Who should take this course?

Individuals new to the human subjects research process at Rutgers, such as:

- Undergraduates
- Graduate Students
- Interns
- Residents
- New Researchers
- Fellows

On-Demand Learning:

Take the course at your leisure!

RUTGERS UNIVERSITY
Office for Research