

Solving issues and making processes seamless are the strengths of Bianca Estella Lewis. For 15 years, she has built her small business from the ground up from one employee to currently over 30 employees. Starting in the field of oncology as a lab technician for the respected Dr. Michaela Scott, she developed her skills of providing comfort to patients in difficult times. She was known for regularly making patients laugh and smile. These qualities of being empathetic and light-hearted is what led her to the success of growing Bianca's Cleaning Service to what it is today. Clients recommend her for not only the impeccable service she provides, but also the positive business relationships she fosters. Some clients have been working with her for the span of 15 years. Over the past twenty years, she has been regularly involved with various local ministries, giving her time to causes about which she is concerned. She volunteered with her husband, Michael, at The Source in Vero Beach who assist the homeless with weekly preparation at their kitchen. She joined and raised money for many walk-a-thons in the fight against cancer, representing the oncology practice. Estella also worked closely with the women of the Samaritan Center, raising awareness for women's reproductive health and fundraising of programs for maternal and baby care. She also has a program Cleaning For Love with NO additional cost for people with cancer or any other disability. In addition to being a small business owner, she is a mother of two daughters, which have followed her example to pursue entrepreneurship of their own businesses. If you do not see her in the office, she is probably out on an estimate, even working on the weekends. However, if she is not working, she will be on the beach, being grateful to live in Indian River County for the past 22 years.
