

Student Voices in Public Health: Presentations from the Missoula Academic Health Department Course

Join us for a student-led showcase featuring presentations from PUBH 491, a course grounded in the Missoula Academic Health Department (AHD) partnership. Throughout the semester, students applied classroom learning to real-world public health challenges in collaboration with local and state health agencies. This culminating session features student presentations highlighting their semester-long projects, offering insight into emerging public health priorities, innovative solutions, and the student experience in applied public health practice.

Presentation topics include:

- Environmental dispossession
- Wellwater in Butte
- Mitigating chronic disease in Montana
- Environmental justice
- Potential negative air quality impacts associated with development in Frenchtown and Wye
- Functional wellness and healthy aging

Presenters: Academic Health Department Students

Date: 7/24/25

Time: 11:00am-noon
