

From the Shepherd's Heart

August 23 is the Sunday I have been waiting for since early March—the Sunday in which the whole flock will gather, the old and the young, the married and the unmarried, the rich and the poor. You will find the house and its furnishings clean and shining. Hopefully there will not be a live virus in the whole house. So if you will come with clean hands, a fresh mask, and a willingness to be careful, we can rejoice in safety.

It pleases the Lord when His people gather to worship. So much so that He has promised to meet with us. So I fully expect to see evidence of His Holy Presence among us. Things will happen that only He can do.

The deacons and the Pastor search committee will have a positive report to share with you.

You will make the day better if you bring a friend or an extra family member with you. I love it when we please Him.

Blessings!
