Andrew Body

Andrew has scored in the 99th percentile on the ACT, SAT, PSAT, GMAT, and GRE. He has worked individually with over 400 students and in a classroom setting with more than 1,200.

Andrew first began standardized testing when he took the ACT at the age of 10, and he began teaching at the age of 18 when asked by a local respected educator to instruct an ACT course.

Andrew began working exclusively in standardized testing and teaching at the age of 23, and did so for three years. During that time, in addition to obtaining excellent student results, he was contracted to rewrite Barron's book on the Miller Analogies Test, an exam administered to applicants seeking PhD's in education. Andrew also has heavily contributed to eight Barron's books on the ACT, SAT, and PSAT, four of which were best-sellers on amazon.com.
