Explore breakthroughs in the fields of energy medicine, quantum physics, DNA and genetics, the biochemistry of emotions and the power of the heart, mind and intentions. See how the old conventional healthcare models, which have relied on surgery and prescription drugs, are being challenged by a wave of dramatic, non-invasive mind-body and energy-based healing techniques. While many of these techniques are centuries old, they are now generating worldwide studies with remarkable results.

We'll meet world-class experts, as well as acclaimed mind-body and energy-medicine practitioners and witness inspiring personal stories. The Healing Field explores how this quantum shift in understanding is affecting our health, our society, and our future. One of the most profound points in the program is to empower individuals to engage in self-healing practices, mind-body techniques and energy medicine for their own self-care.
