Maine Agriculture in the Classroom

History Isn't a Textbook - It's the Food on Your Plate!

Join us as we explore Maine's agricultural story in a way learners can see, touch, taste and experience. Together, we'll look at how the land has sustained us throughout history — from historical traditions to the farms and gardens students know today. You'll leave with hands-on activities and classroom materials that will help students learn where their food and clothing come from, and how agriculture continues to shape Maine communities.

All participants will receive 6 contact hours or .6 CEU's from the University of Maine.

When: April 30, 2026
Where: Woodlawn Museum, Ellsworth, ME

Workshop Fee $30.00
