Volunteer with Redwood Parks Conservancy This September to Restore Coastal Habitats

CRESCENT CITY, Calif. – Redwood Parks Conservancy (RPC), in partnership with California State Parks North Coast Redwoods District, invites the public to volunteer this September to help restore coastal dunes and native habitats across Northern California.

These hands-on restoration days will focus on removing invasive non-native plants that threaten native species and sensitive coastal ecosystems. Volunteers will help restore dune and coastal habitats while spending time outdoors and making a meaningful difference in local state parks.

Whether you're passionate about conservation or simply looking for a meaningful way to spend time outdoors, these events offer an opportunity to connect with nature while helping care for these special places.

Little River State Beach
Saturday, September 12, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.
Come join us for a day of removing invasive plants such as European beachgrass and bush lupine.
Meet at the northern paved parking lot on Clam Beach Drive.

Big Dune – Tolowa Dunes State Park
Sunday, September 20, 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.
Join us in removing invasive non-native plants such as European beachgrass to help protect rare and sensitive coastal dune ecosystems.
Meet at the Lake Earl Wildlife Area building:
2591 Old Mill Road, Crescent City, CA 95531.
(Note: The work site is about a one-mile hike from the parking location.)

Trinidad State Beach
Saturday, September 26, 9 a.m. to 12 p.m.
Join us for a day of removing invasive non-native plants such as English ivy to help protect native coastal habitats.
Meet at the paved parking lot off of Stagecoach Road in Trinidad.

All events are free and open to the public. Volunteers of all ages are welcome (minors must be accompanied by a parent or legal guardian).

Volunteers will receive one free day-use pass to Sue-meg State Park.

Need a ride? Free transportation from Crescent City is available on a first-come, first-served basis. Email autumn@redwoodparks.org or call (707) 564-7388 to reserve a seat.

What to Bring: Sturdy shoes, a hat, drinking water, and a readiness for moderate physical activity. All tools and training will be provided.
