Read to a Child® announces new Remote Read Aloud Program video with Magic Tree House author Mary Pope Osborne as well as significant book donation to Hartford Public Schools

Mary Pope Osborne reads from her latest book in her Magic Tree House series “Late Lunch with Llamas” and answers questions from Hartford Public Schools students

Wellesley, MA, August 19, 2020 – National literacy and mentoring non-profit Read to a Child® today announced its newest Remote Read Aloud Program video featuring New York Times bestselling author Mary Pope Osborne. In the Read to a Child-produced video, Ms. Osborne reads an exciting excerpt from her newest Magic Tree House book Late Lunch with Llamas (Magic Tree House #34) and answers questions from Hartford Public Schools students.

In addition, thanks to a generous donation from Ms. Osborne, all students in grades 1 through 4 at Read to a Child’s four Greater Hartford partner schools will each receive (based upon each child’s grade level) a Magic Tree House book and its corresponding nonfiction Fact Tracker. In total, this donation will provide over 2,400 books for Hartford students, which is the largest in-kind book donation ever facilitated by Read to a Child.

Late Lunch with Llamas takes protagonists Jack and Annie on an extraordinary adventure back in time as they race to the Andes Mountains to rescue a stolen llama while learning about South America and the Peruvian landmark Machu Picchu. Late Lunch with Llamas is accompanied by its nonfiction companion book Magic Tree House Fact Tracker: Llamas and the Andes.

Thanks to the Hartford Public Schools’ Literacy Team, Ms. Osborne answered questions from students about her inspiration for the series and her writing process, while giving advice to young creatives on how to build an outlet for their imagination. Thanks to publisher Random House Children’s Books, the entire video is available on YouTube for all classes, students and families to enjoy at home. The video can also be found at this link <https://tinyurl.com/MagicTreeHouseReadAloud>

Mary Pope Osborne is an ardent advocate and supporter of children’s literacy and has traveled extensively in the US and abroad, visiting schools and speaking on issues related to children’s literacy. When asked about the importance of reading aloud to children, Ms. Osborne responded: “The best way to help children learn to read is to read aloud to them. Children never forget those nourishing moments. Best of all, they learn that reading connects us to others and brings joy.”

About Read to a Child:

Read to a Child (readtoachild.org) is a national literacy and mentoring non-profit that inspires caring adults to read aloud regularly to underserved children to create better opportunities for the child's future. Research shows that reading aloud to children is the single most important activity for eventual success in reading, a key factor for success in school, work, and life. When an adult reads to a child, both parties have a joyful, rewarding experience that instills a love of reading, improves literacy skills, and enhances a child's self-confidence. Read to a Child's Read Aloud Mentoring Program utilizes 2,000 volunteer mentors from the community and from 150 socially-minded organizations who read one-on-one to 1,500 at-risk elementary students in the greater metro areas of Boston, Detroit, Hartford, Los Angeles, and Miami. Read to a Child also reaches and inspires thousands more children across the country in its Remote Read Aloud Program and Celebrity Reading Program where notable authors, celebrities, athletes and politicians read aloud to groups of children either online or in-person.

About Mary Pope Osborne:

Mary Pope Osborne is an ardent advocate and supporter of children's literacy, and the award-winning author of more than 100 books for children and young adults, including novels, retellings of mythology and folklore, picture books, biographies, and mysteries.
