

Allie Glazer, M.S. CCC-SLP/L holds a master's degree in Speech-Language Pathology from Loyola University Maryland, and has been a practicing SLP since 2012. She has worked across the lifespan in school, medical, and home health settings. Owner of alliemslp Speech Therapy Group, Inc., she provides in-home /virtual speech and feeding therapy on the San Francisco Bay peninsula through a strengths- and routines-based lens. EI is her passion population, and championing tiny humans and their grown ups is her favorite part of the job. Her dysphagia and feeding interest started in adult medical speech pathology, and branched out to Early Intervention during her first job where she learned she could combine her love of babies with her love of snack time.
