

Nora Liu, PT, DPT, PCS, is the Therapy Chief of Children's Medical Services and the Director of the LA County California Children's Services (CCS) Medical Therapy Program (MTP), where she oversees a staff of 200 employees at 23 outpatient therapy clinics. After graduating with high honors from UCLA with a Bachelor of Science in Biology in 1996, she graduated with departmental honors from USC with a Doctor of Physical Therapy Degree in 1999. A board-certified specialist in pediatric PT, Dr. Liu has clinical experience in a variety of practice settings, including school districts, regional centers, and LA County CCS. She founded, owned, and directed Helping Hands Physical Therapy, Inc., a private practice that provided direct and consultative therapy services to children in the Early Intervention setting. Dr. Liu was the PT consultant for the Eastern Los Angeles Regional Center from 2006-2014, providing expert opinion regarding eligibility determination and service coordination for children receiving Early Intervention services under IDEA Part C. She served as a part-time faculty member of the USC Excellence in Developmental Disabilities (UCEDD) from 2009-2011 and was an assistant clinical professor in the DPT program at USC from 2002-2008. Dr. Liu has served on various committees for the American Physical Therapy Association throughout her career, with her favorite being a manuscript reviewer for the Pediatric Physical Therapy Journal for the past 15 years. When she is not at work with LA County, she enjoys gardening, hiking, and volunteering for her sons' Boy Scout troop.
