

Angela Hughes, MS, CCC-SLP/L is an AuDHD (Autistic and ADHD) Speech-Language Pathologist working in Arizona Early Intervention Program (AzEIP) who has passion for partnering with caregivers of children with pediatric feeding disorders and complex communication needs. AzEIP provides services within a Team Based EI model and promotes "bagless" coaching. Angela has been an EI SLP for 9 years and was previously a Developmental Special Instructor (Early Interventionist) in AzEIP before earning her master's degree at Emerson College. Angela learned that feeding was a part of the SLP's scope of practice during observations at a children's hospital and ensured that she received training during graduate school in the NICU, a feeding clinic, and in EI. As a life-long learner, Angela strives to support families with intervention supported by current research as well as through the lenses of neurodiversity affirming practices and responsive feeding therapy.
