

Hillary Crow, M.A., CCC-SLP is an Autistic speech-language pathologist with 8+ years of experience providing services to pediatric clients after graduating from California State University, Long Beach with both her B.A. and M.A. in Communicative Disorders. In addition to her work as a former adjunct lecturer and Graduate Clinic supervisor for the CSULB Department of Speech-Language Pathology, Hillary has focused on providing client-centered care in a variety of private clinics and elementary school-based settings.

Since she was diagnosed as Autistic at the age of 30, Hillary's mission has been to blend her personal and professional experiences to provide insight into autism through a neurodiversity-affirming lens. In addition to co-authoring "Putting Autistic Voices at the Forefront of Care" for the ASHA Leader, Hillary has pursued her mission by founding Crow Autism & Speech Therapy Consulting Services, Inc., where she provides speech-language therapy, coaching, and trainings for autistic individuals, their families, and professionals.
