

Tablets, Out of Africa Photos and Watercolors

May 2022 Featured Artists

Francesca Borgatta

Francesca Borgatta of Oakland describes her show as "Reading the Tablet." "A library holds a collection of books, meant to be shared. I hope this presentation will cause people to think about the act of reading, not just as words, but as a means of communication." "Untranslated," a 42" x 18" tablet portrays messages in Farsi to be fathomed while musing over its intricate hand-fashioned frame. All the tablets are bas relief sculpture with mixed media assemblage. She is drawn to folk art and religious traditions, including Indonesian shadow theater and pre-Conquest Mexican figures and architecture. ### Out of Africa

The "Out of Africa" show was organized by Maggie Boscoe, who is a Lamorinda Arts Council board member and a longtime curation team volunteer for the Art Gallery at the Orinda Library. The exhibit includes photographs by Boscoe, David Fleisig, Pam Hall, Jeff Halliday and Maureen Rosati-Wee. Group members roamed far from home to assemble this exhibit of photographs, a mixture of animals, landscape scenes and exotic birds taken mostly in African National Parks.

Anne Fallin

Anne Fallin of Walnut Creek describes her artistic style as contemporary realism. Fortunately for us, the 24 watercolors she is exhibiting display a wide variety of subjects. "I love the challenge of creating a strong design with any subject imaginable," she said. Some of her favorite artists are Karl Larsson, Will Bullas and Pam Glover (1924 – 2010). She painted and studied with Lundy Siegrist (1925 – 1985) for a long time, which is how she met Pam Glover.

It's safe to say that at 80 years of age she knows how to play with watercolors in just about every way imaginable. Her bold sense of design provides a structure for her explorations of brilliant color. Her 20" x 24.5" watercolor, "Candy-Striped Dahlias," is bursting with color and depth of field. One of her cousins, Clyde Smith, is a renowned portrait painter in New York. "We grew up together and he had quite an influence on me," she said. She likes experiencing artwork and exhibits through books and printed materials as the lack of distractions allows her to concentrate fully on the details of the artwork.
