EXOCAD Hands-on Design with MIDAS: Hands-on Workshop

Dr. Roger Pham

Course Director

PROGRAM OVERVIEW

Join Dr. Roger Pham for an interactive, hands-on training session focused on the fundamentals of digital dental design using exocad and the complete workflow from case selection through final production with the SprintRay Midas system.

Participants will work through the digital workflow step by step, beginning with proper case selection and data preparation, followed by restoration design in exocad. The course will demonstrate how to evaluate cases, develop an efficient design strategy, and make key adjustments for predictable restorative outcomes.

Attendees will gain hands-on experience with practical design techniques, workflow organization, and troubleshooting common challenges. The session will then connect the completed exocad design to the Midas production workflow, demonstrating how digital design and manufacturing can be integrated into an efficient chairside process. This course is designed to provide practical techniques that attendees can immediately apply to everyday digital dentistry.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

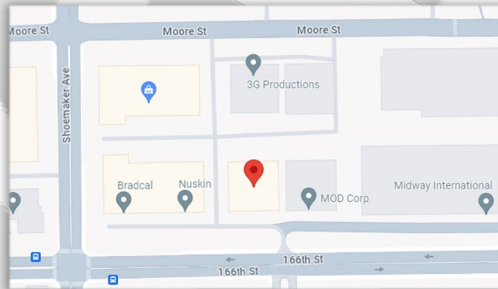

The following topics will be discussed in detail:

- Digital case selection and case planning
- Preparing and managing digital case data
- Fundamentals of restoration design in exocad
- Practical design techniques and workflow optimization
- Key considerations for predictable restorative outcomes
- Common design challenges and troubleshooting
- Preparing completed designs for production
- Transitioning from exocad design to the Midas workflow
- Midas production workflow and clinical integration
