

A Weekend in Duloc

Shrek the Musical, opens on March 3, so this past weekend found cast members building props, learning dance routines, and – of course – moving a castle.

The cast gathered Saturday morning to create “s’nothers,” (Shrek’s version of s’mores), pitchforks, 36 storybook covers, and Shrek’s birthday cake. They then joined other fairy tale creatures to put the finishing touches on “Freak Flag.”

Sunday morning found a few Chalice members moving Lord Farquaad’s castle into a neighborhood garage for safe-keeping. unShrettil set-building begins – and then, again, gathering in the Center for more rehearsals.

As happens every season, the Chalice family is becoming closer as we get the production ready for opening night.

Seats are going quickly – nearly 25% of the tickets have been sold so far – you can get yours here: <http://www.brownpapertickets.com/event/2793343>
