

Tough Talks

Living in a Performance Driven Culture with Tweens & Teens

We have noticed that tweens, teens, and parents are stressed out, maxed out, burned out. You might be one of them.

We are excited to welcome parents students, and their friends for an evening to discovery, laughter and discussion with Heather Choate Davis.

Heather Choate Davis is an author, speaker, liturgist, creator of The Renaissance Service TM , and co-founder of icktank.

In 2013, she received her Master of Arts in Theology from Concordia University in Irvine. She speaks on a wide range of topics that serve the Church: on losing the gift of vocation to a transcript-driven world (Elijah and the SAT); on using the first psalm to as a way of discussing happiness with young adults, (Happy are Those); and on Resurrecting the Priesthood of all Believers. Heather was justre-elected to a second term on the Board of Directors of the PSW District of the Lutheran Church – Missouri Synod.

These conversations are open to the entire community.
Given the subject matter, we ask that students 5th grade and younger do not attend.
