

This year I had the privilege to host a class for the work-a-thon. My daughter Stephanie and I took the 8th grade girls and had them work around the school. I first want to say “Good job” to the parents of the 8th grade girls! What tremendous workers these girls are. They were given all kinds of tasks and never once did I hear them complain. They are all organizers, and so they took the tasks given to them and then just set to work and got numerous things done. I cannot tell you how much they met a need for the school and church. They did an incredible job!

I also was reminded what this work-a-thon is really all about. Sure, it is a fundraiser for the school as we use the funds to buy “the extras” that the budget cannot afford, but the bigger picture is our students learn to be servants. I was thinking how appropriate to have this the day before the “Passover/Easter” weekend, where Jesus’s main message was He wanted us to be servants for Him. So our students were all over Roswell— Harvest Ministries, different churches, Down’s Syndrome foundation, and even Gateway Church and School, plus many more places, serving, and showing the love of Christ to our community. I could not be more proud, and I know our students brought honor to Christ.

Thank you parents, for supporting us on this Work-a-thon. There is so much more being accomplished here than just fund raising. Your children did you proud, and I was honored to get to work alongside some incredible students that love Jesus and love to serve, and brought honor to you and to the school.
