AIA Huron Valley

Anne M. Cox, AIA
President

AIA Huron Valley will be kicking off some warmer weather activities, with a booth at the A2ZERO Green Fair, on Friday June 10th, 6-9pm. As proud supporters of the City of Ann Arbor's transition to community-wide carbon neutrality by 2030, we will be at our booth to answer community questions and promote this initiative. We have been co-sponsoring the A2ZERO on-line Lunch and Learn series with the Ann Arbor 2030 District and the Washtenaw Contractors Association. Our next session will be on June 14 at noon and will discuss 'Building Electrification: Heat pumps & Energy Recovery Ventilators. Contact info@aiahv.org to register for the event.

Another one of our initiatives is the ongoing sponsorship of our annual AWARDS publication. For the past five years, we have published an annual AWARDS booklet. This publication is a way to document and celebrate impactful architecture within our local community, and beyond. It features our Chapter's Annual Award project winners, as well as original articles written by featured authors, notes our sponsors, and has a listing of all current AIAHV members.

Our AWARDS no. 6 - 2023 is currently in production. It will include a feature article written by Jeffrey Welch, 'Eero Saarinen: Michigan American Architect', and a series of smaller articles/case studies written by chapter members on several University of Michigan buildings. The publication will also include all chapter award submissions, highlighting the winners. Some past publications are available online at our website aia.org/huronvalley. Here is a link to last year's publication: 2022 AWARDS No. 5

AWARDS Publication covers | AIA Huron Valley

AIA Huron Valley is an unstaffed chapter serving Architects in Michigan's Jackson, Lenawee, Livingston, Macomb, and Washtenaw Counties. Serving our members for nearly 60 years, our mission is to provide service to our chapter members, the architectural profession, and the local community.