FRANK LLOYD WRIGHT BUILDING CONSERVANCY

JOHN G. THORPE EMERGING PROFESSIONALS & STUDENTS FELLOWSHIP

Established in 2016 to honor prominent restoration architect & longtime Conservancy board member John G. Thorpe, the Thorpe Fellowship provides funding for emerging professionals & graduate students in architecture or historic preservation to attend the Conservancy's annual conference. Conference tours and talks enable them to deepen their understanding of Wright's architecture and immerse themselves in the community of scholars, practitioners, Wright building stewards, and others who are dedicated to preserving this important architectural legacy.

Eligibility

- Professionals in the first five years of their careers in architecture or historic preservation
- Graduate students in architecture or historic preservation, enrolled full- or part-time or having just graduated in the months before the conference

Application & Selection Process

Applications are accepted online through July 22, after which they are reviewed by the Conservancy's Awards & Recognition Committee. The selection process is competitive. Applicants will be notified by Tuesday, August 6.

Award

Fellows receive one free core registration to attend the Conservancy's annual conference, including the opening reception, three days of conference talks and tours, and the gala dinner with Wright Spirit Awards. Fellows from outside the Detroit area may be eligible for a small travel stipend. The award also includes a one-year Conservancy membership.
