

Our group received instructions from one of our Tandana reps on removing the grass in preparation for the garden.

This is the after picture on our final day after we completed all the planting.

School children from Modesto Larrea JiJon school that greeted us every day.

Receiving initial overview and instruction for our cooking class.

Connie Hieatt and Anna Taft meet for first time.

We went into the home of Margarita, the very first Tandana scholarship recipient, and she taught us about traditional Kichwa dress and the meaning of each piece of clothing.

Cutest little boy ever who sang 3 welcome songs for us accompanied by his father on the guitar.

Learning about medicinal plants and herbs from a local medicine man.

Our little sous chef at the cooking class.
