

Continuing Connections: Personal Narrative

Prompt:

As a final assignment for our “Continuing Connections” conversation series, please reflect on the journey your partner and you have traveled together and describe how your relationship is different now compared to when you first encountered one another in September.

In other words, describe how was a friendship forged between your partner and you?

Consider using one or more of the following questions to direct your reflection:

- How did you and your partner go deeper in this experience?
- What challenged you in this course? How did you overcome it?
- How have you been a learner during this experience?
- What questions were most meaningful to your conversations?
- How have you grown in empathy toward your partner? How did you use your imagination to do that?
- Where did you two discover harmony? Where did you find God?
- Do you feel you’ve gained a friend this semester?
