

FEBRUARY 2

NSLA Goes Deeper on Summer as a Solution

In this GLR Learning Loss Recovery series webinar — NSLA: Making the Most of Summer 2021 to Boost Learning, we learn from Aaron Dworkin, CEO of the National Summer Learning Association (NSLA) and leaders from award-winning summer learning programs and program culture experts, including Alec Lee, Executive Director and CoFounder, Aim High; Brodrick Clarke, Director of Technical Training, NSLA; Liz McChesney, Former Director of Citywide Children’s Services at Chicago Public Library; and Eduardo Caballero, Executive Director and CoFounder, Camp EDMO. These experienced practitioners discuss their effective models and how they pivoted last summer to provide virtual and at-home programming in literacy, STEM, social and emotional learning (SEL) and more. Panelists also share how they are going through scenario planning now for summer 2021 to ensure that the time will be maximized to boost learning toward school success, no matter the format.

For a full summary of this webinar, please click here.