Internationalization Strategist/International Recruiter

Job ID: 39768

Salary Range: Commensurate with education and experience.

The Internationalization Strategist/International Recruiter will be responsible for supporting the university's international recruiting operations, expanding on existing strategies and on consumer engagement using their strong skillset of data analysis for regular reporting and further strategizing. In addition, this position will plan engagement opportunities for customers in target markets that are mainly, but not exclusively, overseas; such opportunities include prospective undergraduate and graduate students, agents, and partner organizations. This position also will serve as a Designated School Official.

This position reports to the Director of Internationalization Strategies and International Student and Scholar Services, in UMSL Global. UMSL Global is the university's nexus for international admissions, recruiting, student services, global engagement and impact, and currently serves several hundred international students, faculty and staff.

UMSL Global is looking for a well-rounded personality with enthusiasm for service-oriented engagement with people and with the same level of passion for strategic planning and data-driven internationalization management. This role will provide the incumbent with excellent opportunities to connect professionally with our great UMSL faculty and staff community and strategically with partners around the globe.
