55+ Pool Play Games End Today - Playoffs Loom Large

The ground crew at Fitteam Stadium work to get the field playable after yesterday's heavy downpour, which delayed the start of games on Wednesday about two hours.

Rain Causes Some Delays On Wednesday But All Games Get Played

Several Teams Get Creative During The Two Hour Rain Delay Yesterday

Rain - rain go away, come again another day! That was the sentiment yesterday morning as clouds rolled in and dumped a bunch of rain on the fields in and around the greater Clearwater metropolitan area. And there's nothing sadder than a bunch of adult baseball players, standing around the hotel lobby, dressed in their uniforms looking like Charlie Brown, waiting out the rain delay! Some players managed to pass the time better than others. An impromptu miniature golf round at Congo River Golf kept some players busy while others played poker and gin rummy in the hotel restaurant. But the most entertaining (and profitable field trip of the day) went to the team that ended up taking in a Jai alai contest. For a couple lucky players (who correctly picked the right combo's on the trifecta) these guys ended up about $200 richer. Not only that but their team then went on to win their re-scheduled game. Boy talk about a great day. It doesn't get much better than that. And from a tournament standpoint, all of the games scheduled yesterday were completed.
