Mrs. Polovich

While library class has looked a bit different this school year, it hasn't kept us from having lots of new adventures this fall! My younger classes have met many new favorite characters, including Scaredy Squirrel, the Crayons who Quit, Creepy Carrots, Elephant and Piggie, and Chester! Together we have learned about friendship and caring about others, as well as how to brighten someone's day. We have talked about identifying the sometimes uncomfortable feeling of anxiety, as well as ways we can work through it. Spooky Halloween tales were told, scary spider myths were debunked, and we shared our favorite fall traditions with one another!

My older students have gotten a chance to delve deep into some unexpected topics. Fourth grade made virtual amusement park visits and ultimately designed their own attractions, some whimsical and some totally thrilling! Fifth grade discovered the absolutely adorable world of "cute" animals, while sixth grade went deep into the ocean to find out the truth about the creatures that call the deep sea their home. Current projects include planning a trip to a foreign country, making a business plan for a food truck, and discovering the wondrous world of toy inventions over the past 100 years!
