Emerging Leaders Learning Cohort

description:

The nonprofit sector, like the rest of society, faces many racial equity challenges. For organizational racial equity work to be successful, it needs to take place at multiple levels—from senior leaders to mid-level leaders (supervisors and managers), to direct service providers. This multi-part workshop is targeted for mid-level leaders. We will create a peer learning community to explore tools and frameworks for leading organizational racial equity work. Topics to be discussed include: self-reflection and collective-care; developing an organizational analysis; and moving to action. Space is limited for an intimate cohort.

frameworks and tools:

Cycle of Liberation,
Bobbie Harro • Wheel of Sustainable Change,
Robert Gass • Iceberg Model • Emergent Strategy, adrienne marie brown • and more
