

“Children’s earliest experiences with print will establish a trajectory of learning that is cumulative over time—spiraling either upward or downward.”

— Susan B. Neuman

from Giving Our Children a Fighting Chance: Poverty, Literacy & the Development of Information Capital

Join us in a discussion about literacy, information and inequality

Beyond Our Gates Dialogue with

Susan B. Neuman ’78

Author and New York University professor in early literacy development, and former U.S. Assistant Secretary of Elementary and Secondary Education

September 1, 2016

9 to 11 am | Free and open to the public

University of the Pacific | Vereschagin Alumni House
3601 Pacific Avenue, Stockton

More information/RSVP: jtorressiders@pacific.edu

UNIVERSITY OF THE PACIFIC
STOCKTON SACRAMENTO SAN FRANCISCO