PANEL 1
Race for a Cure – COVID-19 and Therapy Responses and Access by Consumers

2020 ANNUAL MEETING

Colorado Springs, CO

July 23 - 26, 2020

COVID-19 has government officials, pharmaceutical and health care companies forging alliances, researching, expediting and engaging in multi-stake holder communications and partnerships designed to address the daily and weekly COVID-19 developments. This discussion will center around adaptations and innovations in the delivery of services as well as testing and deployment and forecasts in the emerging pharmaceutical therapies

10:00 AM – 11:00 AM

PANEL 2

COVID-19 Telemedicine Advances in the Face of the Pandemic

This panel will address the rapid responses coordinated by federal, state and private sector partners to meet the increased need for services supporting the provision of telehealth capabilities in response to the COVID-19 pandemic. This is critical for COVID-19 positive patients, quarantined individuals, the elderly and other vulnerable populations. These organizations are providing primary care services and remote access to prescriptions when clinics, medical facilities and pharmacies are not able.

Panelists will also forecast how telemedicine will continue to increase efficiencies, expand access and reduce health care costs going forward while ensuring medical data security and quality patient care.

11:00 AM – 12:15 PM

PANEL 3

COVID 19 – The Shift to Online Everything: The Intersection between the Pandemic and the Internet

The rapid shift and deployment of video conferencing services raise privacy and cybersecurity issues as well as the push to get young students online and learning remotely.

Stay-At-Home orders have consumers relying on Internet more than ever, for the delivery of goods and services, learning, and health care. How do you evaluate the dynamics of the Internet economy and how it serves citizens?

New functionalities in iOS and Android will introduce extensive contact-tracing functionality and an expansion of information to local health authorities. How is the system expected to work and what were the concerns?

1:45 PM – 2:45 PM

PANEL 4

General Counsel Panel – Security of Consumer Data

This panel will discuss access to daily communication technology which should be accessible to and empower every American. Because high-quality wireless and broadband is essential to participating in our economy, society and to our national security, public and private actors are working to eliminate untrustworthy programs and equipment from America's communications networks.

Vast amounts of personal information also represent the potentially intrusive powers of some communications technologies. Both government and the private sector entities must be vigilant to ensure against any uses of those powers that would promote illegal discrimination or compromise personal privacy.

What are federal and state regulators as well as corporate America doing to protect the public's data?

3:00 PM – 3:45 PM

PANEL 5

Innovative Retail Energy Alternatives and Clean Energy

Attorneys General are key stakeholders in the ongoing energy policy discussions happening in the states. This conversation will profile efforts by two leading energy companies to meet consumer demand for renewable energy, provide positive customer experience and offer competitive pricing.

3:45 PM – 4:45 PM

PANEL 6

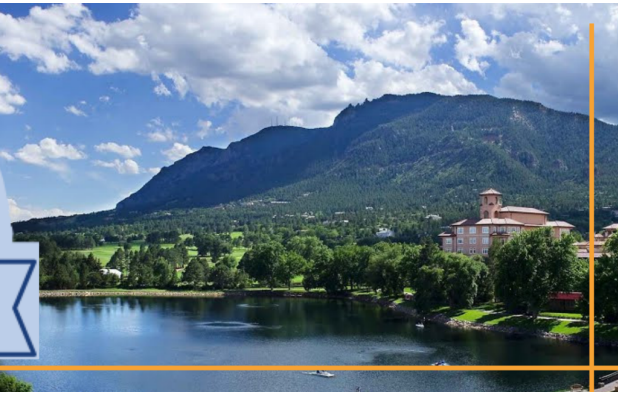

Oil and Gas Development, Impact Upon Climate Change

Current day energy exploration and production are occurring with efforts focused on environmental protection and renewable energies. Hear from organizations and leaders whose priorities include environmental stewardship which addresses climate change while delivering the energy the world needs with less environmental impact.

PANEL 7

Safe CBD Products and COVID Treatment Claims

A proliferation of CBD products is on the market. However, science and safety review, regulation standards and enforcement are lacking. This leads to consumer confusion, misleading advertising claims, and potential adverse health consequences. How might federal, state, and private actors cooperate to create a safe and regulated marketplace?

9:30 AM – 10:30 AM

PANEL 8

Financial Service Industry Responds to Ease Consumer Hardships During COVID

This panel will explore efforts by states and industry which ensure the fair financial treatment of consumers. When assessing impacts on consumers and the economy which may not be readily apparent, could the Corona Virus impacts be skewing risk from a consumer protection standpoint? Federal and state governments have taken preliminary actions to help consumers by instituting certain credit report protections and other financial accommodations. Are there steps that should be taken to address credit reporting, credit repair and debt collection due to the pandemic?

PANEL 14
A Discussion of Food Security, Domestic Supply Chains, Worker Safety and Price Gouging Concerns

Domestic food production is a matter of national security. Processing plant disruptions along with the national surge in demand have had an alarming impact on the costs of goods. During the COVID-19 pandemic, American food producers who are efficient at producing high-quality food in large quantities, have seen retail prices soar. Additionally, worker safety in the meat and food processing industry, as well as retail grocery stores, is of paramount importance. Instances of up to 300% increases in the cost of food has also drawn the attention of Attorneys General and federal officials. This panel will explore the changes to supply and demand and price gouging issues, as well as questions surrounding the domestic supply chain.
