

UPC's Southern Campus Project Guiding Principles

Faithful Presence (who we are)

Be a faithful presence in the heart of West Campus, responding to the changing needs of our neighborhood with hope, compassion, and purpose.

Christ's Welcome (how we receive others)

Extend Christ's welcome by creating spaces that are open, accessible, and inviting to university students, families, our neighbors, including marginalized communities, and all who seek community.

Beauty That Reveals God (how we reveal God's presence)

Cultivate beauty in our worship and our space so that all who encounter us experience God's presence and sacred work, inviting them into a beautiful life of worship, service, and belonging.

Worship at the Center (what the campus exists to support)

Keep worship at the center, creating places where hospitality, learning, service, and community naturally flow from our shared life of worship.

Community Across Generations (how we relate to one another)

Create places where people of every age, background, ability, and life circumstance can gather, belong, and grow together, fostering a community that reflect God's reconciling love.

Faithful Stewardship (how we care for what God has entrusted to us)

Faithfully steward all that God has entrusted to us, planning with wisdom and care so this campus strengthens ministry, serves our neighbors, cares for the environment and endures for generations to come.

Flourishing for All (the outcome we seek)

Create compassionate places that restore, nourish, protect, and renew body, mind, and spirit, fostering the flourishing of our congregation, our neighbors, and all of God's creation.
