Using Interactive Methods to Increase Productivity

Join Southern New Hampshire Services, Child Care Aware of NH for the 5th Annual Spring NH Early Childhood Leadership Summit with Stanley Pollack, author of Moving Beyond Icebreakers: An Interactive Approach to Group Facilitation, Learning, and Action. Through this full day session, you will have the opportunity to learn how to use interactive methods to create group experiences that are highly engaging, enable participants to develop deep relationships and increase investment and productive efforts in meeting group's goals.

During the morning session, How and Why to Use Interactive Methods, participants will have the opportunity to learn about and take part in a six-part interactive meeting format in a way that illustrates how the elements function together to create a dynamic, lively and productive working environment where more voices are heard, problems solved, and innovative ideas are created.

In the afternoon, Stanley will focus on Designing and Using Interactive Methods That Fit. Participants will learn how to design dynamic group meeting formats where the norms are excellent communication, strong and positive motivation and creative problem solving. Participants will have the opportunity to use the techniques and to apply them to their own specific applications.

Trainer Bio: Stanley Pollack developed innovative methods for engaging youth in a process of creating positive change in their communities. He has provided consultation in the Teen Empowerment model to more than 40 organizations. He also provides consultation and training to a wide range of social, educational, and youth service agencies. Under Mr. Pollack's leadership, Teen Empowerment has engaged over 25,000 people in social change initiatives, and has involved hundreds of school faculty, police officers, and youth workers in training designed to improve their agencies ability to meet their goals.
