Keynote Address

No Small Matter: Film Screening and Discussion

Our future depends on our youngest children - on the words they hear in their first months of life, on the loving arms that hold them, on the kinds of experiences they have. But even with widespread support for high-quality, affordable, accessible early childhood education, millions of American children are still not getting the care they need to thrive and succeed. “No Small Matter” is a documentary film that brings public attention to this vital question by sharing powerful stories and stunning truths about the human capacity for early learning and the potential for quality early care and education to benefit America’s social and economic future. Lynette M. Fraga, Ph.D., executive director of Child Care Aware® of America and one of the experts featured in “No Small Matter,” will introduce the film and lead a discussion afterwards about next steps and what is being done and what needs to be done nationally to support an effective system for child care providers, families and children.

“No Small Matter” is the first feature documentary to explore the most overlooked, underestimated and powerful force for good in America today: early childhood education. Through poignant stories and surprising humor, the film lays out the overwhelming evidence for the importance of the first five years and reveals how our failure to act on that evidence has resulted in an everyday crisis for American families and a slow-motion catastrophe for the country.

We will look at six areas, that when combined, help to create this balance. (These specific areas also lead to more developmentally appropriate practices.) Does your current program meet the needs of students and families? How can teachers and administrators shift, if needed, to a complete and balanced program model? Participants will work together to discuss what is already in place in their programs and to see if shifts need to be made to allow for better balance.

1F HEALTH/SAFETY

Childhood Lead Poisoning in NH: What Early Childhood Educators Need to Know

Each year close to 1,000 children in New Hampshire are poisoned by lead and experience blood levels known to impair cognitive development. Lead poisoning in New Hampshire and the effects that even low-level lead exposure have on the brain's learning systems will be provided from numerous studies. Early Childhood Educators will develop an understanding of lead's "neurobehavioral signature" which can create significant negative impact on: cognitive ability, speech and language, hearing, visual-spatial skills, attention, impulse control, social behaviors, emotional regulation and motor skills. The impact of lead poisoning is irreversible and can cause a life-time of consequences. The training will provide information about educational interventions for young children affected by lead and the importance of having results of required lead screening documented on school health forms.

2F CURRICULUM/PRESCHOOL

Sensory Exploration: Ooey, Gooey, Play and More!

The importance of sensory play cannot be underestimated! By encouraging the use of all of a child's senses (sight, touch, hearing, taste, smell, motion and balance) through play, you can support cognitive growth, language development, gross and fine motor skills and much more.

Preschoolers require exposure to activities that stimulate all of these senses, allowing them to dive in and explore new materials and concepts. Using their senses is one of the most natural and most basic ways for children to learn new information about the world around them. Join me for a fun hands-on workshop. I will provide you with quick easy recipes as well as activities for all ages to participate in sensory exploration!

Warning you will get your hands dirty!

As an early childhood professional, your career is one of the most important and challenging. When you spend all day working with children and their families, it can be difficult to focus on your own well-being. In this training, we will look at strategies, stories, activities, tips and tools to use for YOU and to support overall workplace happiness. These will enable you to keep doing what you love, caring for children, but also providing for what you need.
