MS Awareness

Month

Multiple Sclerosis (MS) is a neurological disorder that affects nearly one million people in the United States. MS often presents differently among those diagnosed. With proper treatment and a good support network, people living with MS do well.

Did you know?

- The risk for MS in the general population is about 0.5%.
- Every week in the U.S., about 200 people are diagnosed with multiple sclerosis, or MS.
- Four times as many women have MS as men, and more and more women are developing it.
