

What's New in Kindergarten?

מָה הַדָּשׁ?

Friday, May 24, 2019/ 19 Iyar, 5779

This week:

- We watched a brain pop about butterflies and insects. We learned that insects have three parts to their body. Ask your child what they are called (head, thorax, and abdomen).
- We rehearsed for Arts Night!
- We celebrated Noah's birthday!
- We have done a lot to get ready for the end of the year. We finished our Israel lap books, we have worked on our Aleph Bet books, and we are starting to put together our end of the year scrapbook.
- We wrote several journal entries to include in our end of the year book: Our favorite holiday, our favorite unit, and what we will remember most about Kindergarten.
- We continued to observe our butterflies and predicted when they would come out of their chrysalis. Ask your child when they actually started to emerge!
- We had a surprise extra buddy time this week before the year ends! They joined us for free choice and Tefillah.
- We read a very cute story called The Very Impatient Caterpillar. We even read it twice because we loved it so much! Ask your child about this book.
