Q7 - What do you think are advantages of being a part of the State Collaborative?

What do you think are advantages of being a part of the State Collaborative?

One advantage is learning that we all are stakeholders and have the responsibility of keeping the line of communication flowing in both directions. We may begin with a goal in mind and an idea on how to reach that goal but through partnership, we learn to adjust our way of thinking and come together as a team. Another advantage is we learn together what it takes to increase successful outcomes for families, youth, and children across the state.

Shared information and resources.

- Hearing the latest updates
- Being part of the on-going discussions

Ability to hear many points of view and hear about the latest info affecting children. Youth and families. Support

Q8 - What do you or would you like to contribute to the State Collaborative?

What do you or would you like to contribute to the State Collaborative?

Ideas, participation on committees, presentations

What ever is needed

My experience as a sibling of a person with a developmental disability, cross-sectional advocacy, experience as a parent of a child with developmental delays and potentially behavioral health diagnosis.

I am not sure yet.

My contribution to the SC is at times providing a different perspective on the ideas/thoughts being discuss among the group. I may not be a frontline worker or on the ground worker, however, I support the members of this group while providing assistance/support on the back end.

I want to get more involved

Marketing and communications support - strategic and hands on.

I am on sub committees and attend meetings as my schedule allows

Q9 - What do you think is missing or could be added to the the State Collaborative?

What do you think is missing or could be added to the State Collaborative?

The times that I have called in to the State Collaborative, it seems heavy with family partner representation and low on participation from MCOs.

Not sure since I do not attend

idk, seems to be moving in a good direction

Not familiar with it - just received [your] newsletter and liked it.

I would love a [virtual] option to attend. As chair of the local collaborative I have not been able to get off and get to Raleigh but would love to participate virtually

I've been very impressed with the Collaborative's efforts and resource-sharing

Whole child perspective woven throughout all discussions. More involvement with other agencies beyond DMH.

Q9 - What do you think is missing or could be added to the the State Collaborative?

What do you think is missing or could be added to the State Collaborative?

More adults with IDD and also with MHSA

Higher profile of some of the state agencies

I'm not really sure- it's very thorough.

I am not sure of the goals quite yet. Today is my first meeting.

In my opinion, I would like to hear more of what is happening on the ground in the communities where families and youth are being served. What are the barriers or issues and how can we address those concerns. We need a forum for open discussion time and not always filled with presentations.
