*When Joseph got up...he did as the Lord's angel had commanded him,
Mathew 1:25*

Hopes were dashed. Joseph thought he was marrying a pious girl who was pure and virginal. Lord, I can imagine his confusion and hurt and, surely, anger when he first heard the news of her pregnancy. He had never anticipated such a betrayal and such a humiliation. As I ponder the way You worked out the unveiling of Your Word made flesh, I wonder why Joseph's experience unfolded as it did. Why did You not tell Joseph when You told Mary? Why did You let him go through the death of his hopes?

And yet, I already sense the answer. You only allow death so You can bring resurrection. When Joseph's dashed dreams were replaced with Your dream for him, the hurt and confusion were left behind. He could only see the tiniest piece of the story, but You could give him the bigger picture, and that changed everything.

I imagine Mary in that time frame during which Joseph planned to divorce her secretly. Had she assumed, since she was highly favored and blessed among women, that she would not experience such hurt when she told Joseph her news? Did she have a crisis of faith during those hours of uncertainty? Did she have to die a little more to her expectations of what it should be like to be the mother of Messiah?

More death gives way to more resurrection: less of Mary, more of You; less of Joseph, and more of You.

Jesus, as You are being formed in me, I surrender to the disappointments along the way. I admit there are times when I think You must have forgotten me and left me to fend for myself, but deep inside I always know You are there. When disappointments loom large, remind me that I can only see the tiniest piece of the story. Remind me that if I could see what You see, it would all look different to me.

Less of me, more of You—this is my prayer.

We'd love to pray for you! Update our online prayer chain by going to easthaven.church. Click resources, then prayer page. Click on share your prayer request and fill out the form.
